

Internet Consultancy - Short Term Requirements

Small businesses typically have neither the need for, nor the resources to maintain, a permanent IT professional staff. However, there may be many occasions when the need for specialist skills or advice is required. At times like this, when attending a meeting with a client or customer, it may be useful to have an IT professional temporarily 'on the staff', by your side and looking after your interests, not to mention making your company look more efficient. We can provide an IT consultant, qualified to degree level in Computing Science, who is a Member of the British Computer Society.

Our staff carry £500,000 of Professional Indemnity insurance and can be made available for a meeting lasting an hour or two. Note that time will be required to investigate and familiarise themselves with your situation, before the meeting.

Internet Consultancy - Longer Term Relationships

It may be that you have a requirement for IT support over a longer period, say, 6 months to a year, or longer. Without making the investment in full-time IT staff, you can use our services to work closely with you, as a member of your staff for one day a week, for example, to design, implement and maintain your web site, intranet or extranet as well as creating and managing online surveys for example.

An arrangement like this gives you the benefits of having part-time IT staff without the associated problems of recruitment and possibly keeping people busy when workload is sporadic. You'll save in National Insurance Contributions, pension contributions and countless other areas. When the requirement disappears, you won't need to pay a lawyer who specialises in Human Rights and Employment Law either!

If you think we can help with a consultant or contractor for a short or long term project, then give us a call on FREephone 0800 043 1954 or use our contact form

Visit Cobwebbery Limited at <http://www.cobwebbery.co.uk>